2.4.2 – Student Services and Curriculum Development

Since passage of the tri-county millage, DIA educators have significantly increased K–12 services in Wayne County and continue to exceed target participation numbers for students and teachers. Field trip options have expanded in response to teachers’ requests. Professional development most often brings together K–12 educators with museum educators to design specific curriculum resources in support of teachers’ student learning outcomes. These collaboratively developed resources create experiences for students that use objects in the collection as resources for learning across the curriculum. Once these resources are designed, implemented, and adjusted if necessary, they are shared on the website for use by all teachers. http://www.dia.org/learn/learning_resources.aspx

Free Student Field Trips with Bus Transportation

A total of 34,475 students participated in no-cost field trips to the DIA in 2015, exceeding the 16,000 service agreement.

Behind the Seen

Behind the Seen brought engaging talks about the DIA's world-class collection to Wayne County communities. Presented by trained DIA teaching volunteers, these talks cover a wide range of topics and are offered to adult civic and social groups, libraries, senior centers, and other community-accessible locations in the metro Detroit area. In Wayne County, 41 organizations hosted Behind the Seen art talks attended by more than 980 residents. Participating groups chose from the following topics; DIA: The Essentials, Your DIA (R)evolution, Picturing Music, Through Her Eyes: Women Artists in the DIA's Collection, Let Me Tell You a Story, Diego Rivera and the Detroit Industry Murals, Ordinary People by Extraordinary Artists: Degas, Renoir and Friends, To Die Upon a Kiss, Cows at the Opera House and Other Museum Mysteries, Seeking the Sacred, In Our Own Voice: African American Art.

College Night–NEW!

The DIA hosted College Night in October, welcoming 400 students from the tri-county area to the museum to enjoy live music, free admission to the 30 Americans exhibition and a reception and dance party. Complimentary transportation service was offered to all colleges and universities and was provided to Macomb Community College, Lawrence Technological University and Oakland University.

Student from the following schools were invited to participate: Macomb Community College, Lawrence Technological University, Oakland University, Wayne State University, University of Michigan–Dearborn, Oakland Community College, Wayne Community College, Marygrove College, University of Detroit Mercy, Madonna University, Baker College and College for Creative Studies.

Exhibition Community Partnership Programs

Cultural institutions and community organizations throughout southeast Michigan were invited to the DIA to learn about the 2015 exhibitions Diego Rivera and Frida Kahlo in Detroit and 30 Americans. Attendees were invited to develop public programs influenced by the exhibitions. Resulting community partnership programs were promoted by the DIA via social media, press release, direct mail and printed materials.

DIA Inspired: Diego and Frida

Developed to create connections between the themes of the DIA’s special exhibition, Diego Rivera and Frida Kahlo in Detroit, the DIA partnered with The Ford Resource and Engagement Center and Henry Ford Centennial Library on programs that provided transportation to the DIA for lunch and a visit to the exhibition. The participants returned to their local libraries DIA studio instructors focusing on themes of for a discussion and art-making project led by identity.

DIA Inspired: See What I Say

The DIA partnered with InsideOut Literary Arts Project to create original poetry inspired by the exhibition 30 Americans. The multifaceted program included poetry performances and a literary workshop led by InsideOut Literary Arts Project instructors.

The DIA provided a two-day Visual Thinking Strategies training program to the workshop instructors to prepare them to engage students with works of art. At the workshops, which took place in the exhibition space, instructors helped tri-county high school students to look carefully at the images in 30 Americans and use their reactions as inspiration for original poetry.

Students recited their poems in Rivera Court during a performance that concluded the workshops. In addition to on site performances and workshops, InsideOut Literary Arts writers-in-residence used images from 30 Americans in classroom lessons.

See What I Say workshop attendee, encouraged by InsideOut Literary Arts Project Writer-in-Residence Mahogany Jones, to perform before a packed house in Rivera Court

30 Americans Student Discussion

Eleven high school sophomores and juniors from across the tri-county participated in a half-day, facilitated dialogue based on select artwork from 30 Americans to spark conversations about relevant contemporary issues. This diverse group of teenagers shared their perspectives on challenging topics such as the fluid nature of identity and the history of race/racism in the United States. The dialogues were filmed, with select portions incorporated into the exhibition's app-based multimedia tour, alongside comments from some of artists in the show and members of the DIA's exhibition team as a means to deepen visitors' understanding of artworks and themes. Four videos were made from the filmed content, designed to support educators in facilitating similar conversations around issues of identity and race in their classrooms.

Scholastic Art Awards

The Detroit Film Theatre was the site for the award ceremony for the 2015 Southeastern Michigan Region of the Scholastic Art and Writing Awards competition. Staff from the museum's Learning and Interpretation department partnered with Detroit's College for Creative Studies (CCS) to coordinate the event, attended by approximately 2,000 students, family members, and guests over two days in celebration of students' creativity.

Community-Group Art Making

The DIA partnered with human service agencies: Hannan House, Piquette Square, and the John Dingell Veterans Administration Hospital, to bring four sessions of art making and discussions to participants. Their work was exhibited in the DIA's education wing, and the artists spoke about their work at an opening event. Bus transportation was provided by the DIA.

Art making in the DIA studio

Empty Bowls

The DIA partnered with Assumption Cultural Center in St. Clair Shores for an Empty Bowls event to benefit Cass Community Social Services in Detroit. Bowls were produced by DIA staff for the event held at the Sugar Hill Clay Studio in Detroit. The event included donated soups and breads from local establishments, raising awareness of the issue of food scarcity.

Fairs, Festivals and Community Events

The DIA studio provided hands-on art making opportunities at fairs and festivals and community events throughout Wayne County, with projects appealing to those five years old and older. More than 2,000 people were creatively engaged at the following events:

- Detroit River Days
- Wyandotte Art Fair
- Metro Detroit Youth Day
- Art of Resilience in Harmonie Park
- Dearborn Homecoming
- DPS Student Art Show at Detroit Public Library
- DPTV Summer Smart Event
- Quicken Loan Day

Drop in workshops at Senior Centers

The DIA tested an art-making program at Northville Senior Center, providing of five workshops that attracted 91 seniors. Lessons learned from this pilot program will be incorporated in future programs.

Healing Arts

DIA artists visited Children's Hospital of Michigan twice a week throughout the year for bedside art-making programs and an “Art in the Garden” project for patients and their families. In 2015, the program engaged more than 1,150 people in Wayne County.

Inside| Out

Inside|Out has become the cornerstone of our engagement efforts with Wayne County communities. In 2015, 22 tri-county municipalities applied to participate in the program, exceeding last year's total. Twenty communities were accepted, including ten that had never participated previously. To accommodate the communities, new images were added to the collection, and the DIA provided training for community volunteers to help facilitate local programming.

Wayne County Inside|Out communities:

Hines Park, Osborn, Wayne State University, Grosse Ile, Detroit Community Gardens, Detroit Riverwalk and Flat Rock.

The DIA partnered with Wayne County Parks Chief of Planning and Design Elizabeth Iszler to bring Inside|Out to a 17-mile stretch of Hines Park from Livonia to Northville. Sites were chosen to highlight the park's many amenities, including fishing docks, playscapes and scenic lookouts.

The growing interest in sustainable food sources and urban gardening inspired the DIA to partner with both Sarah Clark of Southwest Detroit Environmental Vision and Riet Schumack of Neighbors Building Brightmoor to produce an Inside|Out exhibition in Detroit community gardens. Some of these gardens contained small raised beds, such as those in Cadillac Urban Garden in an old parking lot for General Motors executives; the Brightmoor Youth Garden, where young gardeners set up a profit-sharing enterprise; and Beaverland Farm, a large farm that takes up three city blocks.

Complementary programs included a bike tour that attracted more than 80 participants. Another project, in partnership with the College for Creative Studies, focused on how gardens and public art improve the quality of life for residents in blighted neighborhoods.

Minds on Art

In 2015, four six-week sessions were held at the DIA's Minds on Art program, a partnership with the Alzheimer's Association of Michigan to bring individuals living with memory loss and dementia (including Alzheimer's disease) and their care partners for gallery discussions and hands-on art making. (Participation is available to residents in the tri-county area, and the program is free of charge with transportation provided). New this past year, the DIA added seven outreach/off-site art discussions at the Alzheimer Association during winter months, giving a power point presentation with art images.

Art and Authors

Wayne County residents were invited to attend the DIA's quarterly book discussions and to view great art. Tri-county participants discussed five art-themed books and learned about the DIA's collection through related guided tours in the galleries. Programming was implemented, through partnerships with libraries across the area including Plymouth District Library and Canton Public Library.

Detroit Public Schools Student Art Show

The 78th Annual Detroit Public Schools Student Exhibition was on view at the Main Detroit Public Library from April 12 through June 8 and featured hundreds of imaginative works created by Detroit Public Schools students in kindergarten through 12th grade. Mediums ranged from paintings, prints, drawings, photography, ceramics, videos, jewelry and more. The opening and awards ceremony for the show was held in the Detroit Film Theater Auditorium. DIA staff served as part of the jury that selected art to be included in the exhibition.

Keys in the D

The DIA partnered with Keys in the Cities and Forward Arts to bring artist-painted pianos into public spaces throughout the city of Detroit. The pianos, donated by area residents, were painted by local artists selected by Forward Arts. Artists Marlo Broughton, Tylon Sawyer and Keri Mortimer completed their artwork on the pianos at the Red Bull House of Art in Eastern Market. The pianos were placed at the Ford Resource and Engagement Center, Belle Isle Conservatory and Matrix Center in Detroit's Osborn neighborhood.

Frida–The Opera

Partnering with the Michigan Opera Theatre, the DIA presented Frida–The Opera. The Detroit Film Theatre hosted three sold-out performances, including a student matinee. The Macomb Center for the Performing Arts and Oakland County's Berman Center for the Performing Arts also hosted performances.

Art X

In collaboration with Midtown Detroit Inc., the DIA hosted performances by four Kresge Art in Detroit Fellows. Art X programs were free to the public and included:

- Nascent Transformation, a dance performance by Tracy Halloran Pearson in the Detroit Film Theatre. The work explored ideas surrounding rebirth and renewal.
- Louder than Love, a documentary film highlighting the creative and revolutionary frenzy of Detroit in the 1960s, including rare archival footage and interviews with musicians and an exploration of the now-abandoned Grande Ballroom. The screening was held in the Detroit Film Theatre.
- Rola Nashef–The Director's Cut, film provides a reflection on her own life experiences through powerful and lively storytelling,. It also introduced audiences to an entire cast of characters that would later become the inspiration for her award-winning film Detroit Unleaded, a slice-of-life romantic “dramedy” that centers on an Arab-owned, 24-hour gas station in Detroit.

You Want Poems–The Art of Jessica Care Moore, a film about the legendary Detroit poet Jessica Care Moore was presented by 2014 Kresge Artist Fellow and filmmaker Donovan Glover.

Cinetopia

In collaboration with Midtown Detroit and the Arab American National Museum, the Detroit Film Theatre presented the new animated movie The Prophet in a free, outdoor screening on the DIA's North Lawn as part of Cinetopia, a film festival. The Prophet brought to life poet Khalil Gibran's thoughts on love, work, children, marriage and freedom in vignettes directed by some of the world's foremost animators.

Matrix Theatre

In celebration of the Diego Rivera and Frida Kahlo in Detroit exhibition, the DIA partnered with Matrix Theatre to present a free artist demonstration and a hands-on workshop of the construction of a giant Rivera walking puppet. In the week-long project, visitors participated in the construction of a seven-foot likeness of the Mexican muralist on the stage of the Detroit Film Theatre. Families with children were invited to make smaller parts that were then incorporated in the finish completed puppet, which then strolled through various events during the closing weekend of the exhibit

Italian Film Festival

The DFT hosted movie screenings and receptions in partnership with the Italian Film Festival Detroit. of the films Human Capital and La Mafia Uccide Solo d'Estate in April. The films, introduced by members of the Dante Alighieri Society and staff of the Italian Consulate in Detroit, were followed by afterglow receptions in the DIA's Crystal Gallery.

The Keeper and the Dove

In April, the DIA presented Jessica Rivera, a guest artist at the Detroit Symphony. In a performance The Keeper and the Dove. The work by the orchestra's composer-in-residence Gabriela Lena Frank is the distillation of an opera featuring two characters: Catrina, the keeper of souls, who bestows a gift once a year to spirits wishing to visit their still-living loved ones, and Frida, who yearns to see Diego once again.

Las Cafeteras

The DIA, in partnership with Latin American for Social and Economic Development, Inc., arranged musician workshops for young players with the members of Las Cafeteras, a critically acclaimed band that fuses traditional Mexican music with contemporary rhythms, spoken word and community-focused social messages. After a week of one-on-one workshops, the students joined Las Cafeteras in a performance for Friday Night Live! in Rivera Court.

Detroit City Chess Club

The DIA continues to host weekly meetings of the Detroit City Chess Club (DCCC), where students receive coaching on the game and play museum visitors wanting to join in. Two simul-matches, featuring an internationally ranked Grand Master playing 50 students simultaneously, were held during the summer months. All the chess events are free to the public. In May the DIA was the site of an all-city awards ceremony and provided refreshments for DDCC players and members of other metro-Detroit chess clubs.

Concert of Colors

DIA held free concerts and films as part of the citywide Concert of Colors, an annual festival presented in partnership with the Community Foundation of Southeast Michigan, the Detroit Symphony Orchestra and ACCESS. The following were held at the DIA:

- The Leftover Cuties featured vocalist Shirli McAllen on ukelele, Stuart Johnson on drums, Mike Bolger on keyboards, horns, accordion and bassist Austin Nicholson in a performance of sultry retro-pop vocals combined with American roots and Tin-Pan Alley music.
- Art as a Weapon: Five Scenes of Frida and Diego in Detroit detailed the true story of artists of Frida Kahlo and Diego Rivera time in spent in Depression-era Detroit, told in a multimedia stage performance with an original musical score by composer Rick Robinson and performed by the CutTime Players.
- The film Jauja, winner of the Grand Prize at the Cannes Film Festival and an official selection at the Toronto and New York Film Festivals was shown at the Detroit Film Theatre.

After 5 Detroit Movie

The Detroit Film Theatre presented the film A Band Called Death as a special event for After 5 Detroit summer interns.

Free Movies at the Detroit Film Theatre

Two animated features were shown free of charge to residents of Oakland, Wayne and Macomb counties in December at the DFT during the museum's extended holiday hours:

When Marnie Was There was shown twice on December 26 and 28
Boy and the World was shown twice on December 29 and 30 and once on Dec. 31.

Support for Community Groups and Schools

The DIA supports schools and community groups in their fundraising efforts through donations including DFT tickets, art books and exhibition tickets.

Diego Rivera and Frida Kahlo in Detroit Introduction Talks

The DIA provided complimentary introductory talks to Wayne County groups prior to their entrance to the Rivera and Kahlo exhibition. The half-hour long talks gave a brief history of the artists, their time spent in Detroit, and their art. The following groups attended an introductory talk.
